WHY NOT IN HIGH POINT?

Greensboro and other cities require monthly reports on the dairies selling its citizens' milk and on the restaurants serving the public. Why not the same way in High Point? Haven't we provided for this all important feature and isn't the health of our people just as essential as in other towns and cities? We think so?

We Want to Know

What the bacteria count is in the milk from the various dairies?

We Want to Know

If this count runs too high for safety?

We Want to Know

If typhoid, tuberculosis, or other dangerous germs are present?

We Want to Know

Which milk has the largest percentage of butter fat, so that we may use the best milk.

We Want to Know

And we believe the public wants to know if the milk they are using is alright in every particular. Is this too much to ask in the interest of public health? We think not!

THE RESTAURANTS

We Want to Know

If they are clean and sanitary?

We Want to Know

If pure foods are used and if the food is cooked well.

We Want to Know

If there are any 100 per cent. restaurants in town and if there are any who fall below the danger line?

We Want to Know

And the public wants to know if when they patronize the restaurants good, wholesome food goes into their stomachs?

And this is only fair and it's time the public was demanding these protections at once.

FIRES ARE EXPENSIVE

The fire department was called into action Friday evening due to a small blaze in D. S. Leak's back lot on Hamilton street. Some rubbish was being burned preparatory to making garden when the fence and chicken coop caught on fire. Chief Ingram warns the people to be a little more careful as such fires sometimes cause great conflagrations, just like a match in the hands of a careless boy started a big fire at Nashville last month. Every time the fire department is called out by an alarm of fire it costs the city about $25 in fees to say nothing of the wear and tear of the gas wagons and equipment.

With Our Advertisers

You have until Saturday night to enroll in the Savings Department of the Home Banking Co. and your money will bear interest as from April 1st. See ad.

We call attention to the double page ad of the Atlantic Sales Co. in this issue. J. L. Chervault is in charge and that is evidence enough that great values will be offered the people. A large stock of goods have just arrived and placed on the shelves. Take a tip, read the big ad, go to the sale on opening day Saturday and profit thereby.

M. H. Harmon, the bicycle man, has an ad in this issue. Read it.

Youthful Thief and Dare Devil

Lawrence Phillips, the 13-year-old boy who escaped from the police officers in Greensboro recently, climbing down the drainage pipes of the City Hall to liberty, was arrested here last night in a spectacular manner. He was found in the Redding building and tried to make a get away by coming down the drain pipes and electric light wires from the attic or 4th story but the officers were on the spot and nabbed him. Phillips has a bad record. He has robbed the homes of Mrs. Phillip Rogers, Ben Best, Kephart, Welborn Supply Co., etc. Among the articles secured at these places are: Four flashlights, pistols, scout suits, rings, brooches, knives, etc. He was sleeping in the attic of the Redding building and had a regular collection of stolen things. He is evidently a kleptomaniac of the worst kind. His father is a respected citizen working at the Tomlinson Chair Mfg. Co., and the family lives on Ward street. The trial will occur today.

Assault Upon Limb of Law

Rad Welborn and Saphronia Shaw, colored, were given road sentences of 4 months and two months respectively for resisting arrest. Officer Carroll was the man on the job and he was knocked down and scuffed around and otherwise humiliated before the majesty and greatness of the law was vindicated through the liberal use of a 14 ounce "billy" in the hands of the officer. The prosecuting attorney thought an example should be made of such a case or more serious assaults would follow. The recorder thought likewise and promptly sentenced the pair to the roads.

Villa in a Bad Way

For the third time it is stated that Villa is wounded and his capture imminent. This time however the report is more authentic.

Rob Vault

Gilbert Newell and Walter Bradley robbed the vault of the N. C. Public Service Co. Sunday morning, in Greensboro and securing some $500, most of which was recovered. Newell was found in the vault when it was opened in an apparent unconscious condition with blood on his face from a wound. It was first thought he was a victim of a burglar but it now seems was a put-up job.

Later—The two were arrested and at the trial Wednesday Newell was put on probation for a period of 2 years and Bradley sent to jail in default of a $1,000 bond.

ROTTEN TO THE CORE

"Society is rotten as it can be and there seems to be little hope for betterment," said a pious church member to the editor last week. "The people are going to the devil as fast as they can and the church should sound a warning against its members (both men and women) gambling, dancing and doing other worldly things" continued our caller. "Why if it keeps up at this pace where will it end. The churches several years ago condemned dancing and card playing among its members. Can it now afford to keep silent and be consistent? What's the cause? Society! And its rotten to the core!" concluded our visitor. "You are hitting pretty close to the mark, friend, we seem to be up against it."

Rev. L. W. Blackwelder, J. L. Sechrest, Rev. Stubbs, R. H. Crouch and others addressed the Mechanicsville Jr. Order members Tuesday night.

THINGS PERSONAL AND OF A GENERAL NATURE

Earle Palmer and wife Annie were indicted for retailing, several vials of the crazy fluid having been found in their possession. The trial occurred Wednesday. Earle was sent to the for 4 months and his wife was acquitted.

It is probable that "some arrangement will be made by the city to carry off the rubbish and other refuse matter from the residences each week, a small fee making this possible.

Mrs. J. A. Turner and son, James are visiting relatives in Charlotte.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Ragan have returned from a visit to Norfolk.

The Junior order gave a reception to its members and friends last night.

It seems that since the vivid report of the wounding of Villa and the close quarters in which the Mexican bandit was supposed to be, that he is a man of mystery, and not so easily caught. In fact Villa is now reported beyond the range of the Americans and serious doubt is expressed over his early capture at least. The peons of Mexico told conflicting and misleading tales about famous bandit, through fear of Villa or with a disposition to not aid the gringos.

Discover Terrible Dive

Search for Bug Juice, Find Empties

Chief Leighton Gray sniffed the air Friday evening and he thought he smelt a "wet rat" and forthwith summoned his trusty subordinates in the persons of Officers Wood, six feet two, and Carroll, five feet eleven and immediately turned their faces eastward, the trail leading by the "lonesome, sighing pines" and suddenly ceasing at the home of John Wade who is said to be suffering with appendicitis and whom our sympathetic governor granted a respite from the cruel chain gang to undergo an operation but who instead spent the time at home for reasons best known to himself but for what reason, the officoes were somewhat dubious, hence the raid on Wade's barn last Friday evening in the stillness of a March twilight. After searching through the fodder and rambling thru the rye they did not find the products of either forage, corn or rye liquid, but they did find one hundred and thirty-two gallon jugs and one hundred and eighty-five gallon kegs (three hundred and seventeen gallon retainers all told) a rubber syphon and various and sundry quarts and pint measures. This is not all either, certain secret recesses and dark and treacherous ravines were disclosed to the surprise and discomfiture of this strong aggregation of the law's majesty. My, what a revelation, what a storage of dry articles made for wet goods.

But this is the third act, the audience has enough for this setting, let the curtain drop.

To Make Another Try

Another election of bonds is to be called, May 23 the probable date. We trust the one-third property owner's clause will be eliminated, the amount to be voted large enough to meet the requirements, and that it will be presented to the voters in an acceptable manner.

RETURNING FROM PLEASANT VISIT

A. Upton, of Seagrove, a staunch friend and reader of The Review, was a caller at our office Monday. Mr. Upton was returning from a two week's visit to his son at Great Falls, S. C., where the power plant of the Southern Power Co. is located and where his son holds a responsible and lucrative position with the company. Mr. Upton says it is a wonderful place and he departed with regrets but the coming of spring called him back home to his farm at Seagrove. While at Great Falls he fished or rather seined and caught some big carp which was great sport, even for a man of his years.

Hart Drug Co. has installed a very handsome electric sign.

Col. H. B. Varner who will be the next congressman from the 7th District, was a visitor yesterday.

Yesterday Raymond Stroud was arrested here on a retailing charge in Cooleemee. He gave bond for his appearance there Monday.

THE KANSAS CITY STAR ONE YEAR FREE

Until further notice we will give the Kansas City Weekly Star, one of the best weeklies in the world, a whole year FREE to every subscriber of The Review who pays up all arrearages, etc., and a year in advance. This applies to old as well as new subscribers. The Star is given in lieu of any other proposition, though offer on these is still open. The Star is issued on Wednesdays, and while it is made to be of special service to farmers and stockmen, it is a paper for every home. It has been aptly described as a well balanced combination of political news and progressive agriculture. It is that paper of spirit and spunk which states clearly both sides of every big question. It is for the little man if he is right, and against the big man if he is wrong. Favors good roads and better farm conditions.

W. L. STAMEY, Pub. The Review.

Dr. Thos. Newlin of Guilford College, addressed the Sunday school teachers Tuesday night.

Funeral Services of Mrs. Craven

Funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. Lizzie V. Craven were held at Abbott's Creek Friday at 11 a. m., conducted by Rev. S. D. Shelton of Welch Memorial M. E. church, who spoke feelingly of the life and death of this Godly woman who was a devout Christian and most useful church member. "Nearer my God to Thee", a favorite song of the deceased was one of the selections. An overflow crowd was present to pay their last sad respects to their departed friend and sister. The floral offerings were pretty and the large number attested the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Before leaving the home for the church a short service was held consisting of a song and prayer.

Among those attending from High Point were Mrs. W. L. Stamey, Mrs. J. L. Kirkman, Mrs. Ivey Smith, J. A. Clinard, Mr. and Mrs. John Hayworth and family, A. C. Lammonds.

FIGHT OVER A WILL

An interesting suit has been instituted in Davidson county to determine the true intent of the will of the late S. A. Cecil. The will was dated June 25, 1884 and probated about two years later, following the death of Mr. Cecil. Last month Mrs. Nancy Cecil, the widow died, and immediately a controversy arose over the matter among the heirs. Among the other property owned by deceased is the Main Street store building here, occupied by R. L. Loflin, undertaker, and valued at about $15,000, and which three of the heirs claim belongs to them by the wording of the will, the others having no share in it. Some interesting constructions have been placed on the true intent and meaning of the will as executed by Mr. Cecil and the case will be watched with interest, no doubt, bringing out many fine points of law, written, and unwritten, so complex is the phraseology and terms of this last will and testament.

Mrs. J. P. Sinclair and daughter Miss Julia of Marion, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Carson Sinclair on West High Street.

An organ recital will be given tomorrow night at Wesley Memorial Methodist E. church by Mortimer Browning and wife under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of the church. A treat is in store for those who go.

"Hello Bill" how are you? Glad to know it!

Supt. Haynes "made a most delightful talk to the Philomatheans at the Elk's club Thursday night" is the way a lady expressed it to the editor. We heartily agree with the lady.

The best route to Greensboro now while the road is being fixed is by Jamestown and Guilford College and on down the pike to the Gate City.

Every "Hello Bill" is requested to be present at the meeting tonight.
